Crowd Shivers in Cold.

Hundreds arrived before dinner time. The evening was chilly. They shivered, but stayed on. They surged heaviest around the warden's office. Motorcycle policemen rode along the edges of the crowd, metimes riding into the masses to keep the streets clear for traffic.

Each official automobile, passing through the lines, drew shouts from the throng. "There's Fisher"

—"there's Hoffman" — there's Hauptmann's wife"—but always, hey were wrong.

The streets around the walls were dark. In some doorways of nomes, men and women and children stood, staring at the prison ross the street,

Inside a small church across from the prison there were bright lights and many persons preparing for an Easter bazaar. Across the top of the bulletin board were the words: "Christ is risen."

The street along the east wall of the prison was the lane of activity. At the north end was the warden's office, with the crowd a block away. but the crowd at the south end was closest to the deatn house though

The ends of the street were roped off for hours before the execution. No one was allowed through without a pass signed by Col. Mark O. Kimberling, the prison warden. Even those bearing passes were questioned closely and checked off list. At each end of the ropedoff street, State troopers and po cemen held back the throngs. The "death watch" along this

MR. VANDENBERG VS. MR. WALLACE.

The demand by Senator Vandenberg of Michigan for a list of AAA beneficiaries who received more than $10,000 last year is eminently proper, and resistance to it on the part of Secretary Wallace and Chester Davis, the AAA Administrator, does them no

It is no answer to say that compilation of the list would take too much time. The information for which Senator Vandenberg calls has an important bearing on the whole problem of farm relief: it is therefore worth digging out, even at the cost of putting on an extra staff of workers for as long as might be necessary.

Secretary Wallace is reported, variously, to have said that the publication of a list of large recipients of AAA benefits would invite kidnaping activities against "the farmer's daughter" or "the farmer's dollar." Which expression he actually used is of no consequence. In either case the argument-if such it can be called—is frivolous. Parenthetically, it might 000 and unward, whose names and salaries, under the present tax laws, are released annually for publication. Nor has it shown any reluctance, on the score of time and expense involved, in requiring private individuals and corporations to make elaborate and costly reports to the Government,

Senator Vandenberg has quoted reports that among the AAA benefits were $168,000 to a single cotton company. He has not questioned the validity of these and other large payments, but he believes that Congress and the public ought to know about them. Of extent relief funds have been and are being disbursed to other persons and interests than hard-pressed fam-

But the clinching argument on Senator Vanden berg's side is one that he himself has pithily stated. It is that "no individual who draws subsidies from the public treasury-no matter how inherently munity from public scrutiny on this score." That is the complete answer to Mr. Wallace.

Man-Made Floods and Dust Storms

Abuse of the land causes both floods and dust storms, because soil-binding vegetation is lacking, says head of Conservation Service; attempts to curb high water have been at its strongest point rather than place of origin; no permanent solution possible for either problem until erosion over entire watersheds is checked.

H. H. Bennett, Chief, Soil Conservation Service, United States Department of Agriculture, in the New York Times.

LOODS in the East, dust in the Westand Americans are warned once again that their conquest of a continent has loosed the elements of destruction.

In the past, we have shrugged at these ele-ments and blamed nature. Wind and rain, we said, are natural phenomena over which man has no control. We have fought floods at their point of effect—with levees, resernd revetments—instead of at their point of cause; and we have fought dust storms after the havoc has begun, although precaution is the cure.

Now, we know that nature is not to blame for the accelerated floods that have devastated the East and the prodigious dust storms that have been playing havoc in the We know that they are man-made and that both are consequences, paradoxically, of the misuse of our land. When white men took this country over, the entire East and most of the West were carpeted with vegetation—the trees and un-dergrowth of the forests and the grasses of the plains. Rivers ran clear most of the year. When they spread infrequently from their courses, it was slowly and with no great violence. It rained as much and the wind blew as hard then as now. But nature's protections then were undisturbedthe soil was anchored against the wind, the streams protected by grassed and forestcovered slopes from which the rains ran off slowly or sank into absorptive soil.

The conquest of America has been largely a conquest of nature. Civilization has stripped the forest cover from the hills and turned under the grass sod of the plains Corn, cotton, potatoes and wheat have replaced the soil-binding forest litter and the matted grasses that held the soil in place Today rainfall runs in torrents, unimped ed, from a million naked slopes; the wind sweeps great blankets of soil from lands which have been stripped of natural cover

In the past two years, the Soil Conserva tion Service of the Department of Agriculture has carried on erosion-control work in 141 small watersheds in 41 states. Co-op erating farmers within these watersheds are taking steep eroded fields out of clean-tilled crops and putting them into trees, or grass or meadow. They are restoring the absorp tive mats of vegetation. They are plowing and cultivating the mod-slopes on the level along the contours instead of up and down the hill. They are terracing where necessary, and they are cropping in strips so that bands of legumes tilled fields of similar design between

Where Was Liberty Cradled?

In saying this, we do not intend to belittle the highly important contribution of the Bay State to the upbuilding of American institutions and American character, but we feel it incumbent upon us to state a few indisputable facts. Lest we incur the suspicion of bias, we quote from the latest edition of the Encyclopaedia Britannica,

"It was here that the first permanent English settlement in America was founded on May 13, 1607, that representative government Labor Se inaugurated on the American continent in 1619, and that Negro servitude was introduced into the original 13 colonies, also in

We aren't proud of the Negro servitude, but we don't anticipate any bricks on that core from the direction of Massachusetts the first colony in America to legalize the slave trade and slavery by legislative act, the first to send out a slave ship and the first to pass a fugitive slave law.

Even for those who regard the Mayflower Compact as something fundamental in the development of American institutions, it would seem pertinent to observe that this document was not drawn up until 1620, the year after the first representative assembly in the New World met in the church at Jamestown. And how important was the compact? Let the Britannica answer again:

"There was no intention of making a new departure in the direction of a democratio constitution, and the short document was merely a modification of the customary form of church covenant to meet the temporary crisis of an unfamiliar situation."

Other aspects of the settlements in Massachusetts are dealt with in the same authoritative work of reference. It declares that whereas the religious motive was important in the establishment of the colony, those who established it were interested solely in religious freedom for themselves, not "for those who might wish to worship differently."

Indeed, throughout the entire colonial period, they "fought religious liberty with every weapon in their power." The article speaks of the "harshness of rule, narrow-mindedness and self-satisfaction which became characteristic of the Massachusetts colony

Now, we are not contending that Virginia vas without shortcomings in the early days. The idea that the Old Dominion was settled almost entirely by Cavaliers is a myth and we concede, also, that there were alto-gether too many bluenoses here in the seventeenth century. But we must take issue with our St. Louis colleague when he de prives Virginia of the title of "cradle of erican liberty" and gratuitously hands that title over to Massachusetts.

If we haven't convinced him already that ie is grievously in error, we can bring up a lot more battalions, with such persons as Nathaniel Bacon, Thomas Jefferson, George Washington, George Mason, Patrick Henry and James Madison in conspicuous But we really haven't the heart to rub it in to that degree, unless he insists on further 'evidence,

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, April 4.—A fairly brisk demand above medium and low priced rail liens forward for moderate gains in the bond market today. The entire market was generally steady.

After a quiet start trading in the U. S. Government list broadened and at one time in the final hour small gains and losses were about evenly divided. Treasury 3½s. 2½s and 2½s were a little higher, while limited losses were suffered by the 3½s of 1946.

Gainers among the carriers included Baltimore & Ohio 4½s. North Western 4½s. Erie 5s. Illinois Central 4½s and Nickel Plate 4½s.

Bidding in the rail sector was stimulated to some extent by the spectacle of good gains in carrier equities. Demand for both rail loans and—stocks was explained in banking circles moetly in terms of current loadings.

The steadiness in the Government divi-

THREE HUSTLING BOYS EARN FREE RANGER BICYCLES

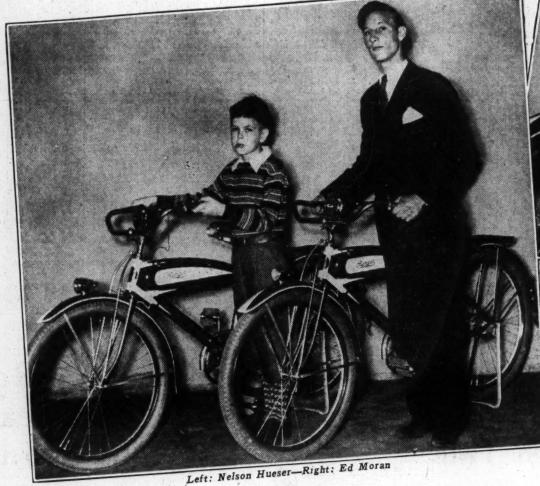

Three more boys have joined the ranks of happy owners of FREE RANGER BICYCLES, earned by sincere effort:

ED MORAN, 1620 N. 18th St., is 18 years old. Out of work because he had no bicycle, Ed welcomed the Post-Dispatch Free Ranger offer. He obtained the 12 subscriptions necessary to earn a Ranger in two days.

NELSON HUESER, 4534A Fair Ave., 91/2 years old, is a student in the fourth grade at Harrison School. Nelson had wanted a pony until he saw the Post-Dispatch Free Ranger announcement -then he changed his mind. He enrolled, and earned his bicycle in two evenings of work.

EMIL JOE FALTUS, 18 Maret Square, Belleville, Ill., has the honor of being the first Belleville boy to earn a Ranger. Emil is eight years old and is in the third grade at St. Luke's School. Emil started to work Saturday and had his 12 subscriptions by Thursday.

Earnest effort and perseverance will enable any enrolled worker to duplicate the success of these boys. Why not enroll today and become the proud possessor of one of these beautiful Rangers?

Emil Hansen, the Saints' coach,

It was not a particularly thrilling contest. Perhaps the players were tired from the two strenuous games at St. Paul and the long automobile trip here. At any rate, play was spotty. There were flashes of in-spotty. There were flashes of interesting hockey but penalties slowed up the action considerably. To start with, the Flyers, already handicapped by the illness of Gordon Tell, a right wing, suffered a further loss yesterday when Fido Purpur developed a case of influenza and was unable to play. That forced McPherson to put Ted That forced McPherson to put Ted Breckheimer, a left wing, at right wing in place of Purpur.

NEW MARKS IN 10 OUT OF 16 RACES ALREADY HELD IN MEET

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, April 4.-An Olympic year's field of swimming greats will make its final assault on an already tattered and torn record book tonight in the closing program of the annual men's and women's National A. A. U. senior indoor championship

Three afternoons and nights of competition have produced record alterations of meet, American or world significance in 10 out of 16 Tonight four defending titleholders in individual events Mrs. Lenore Kight Wingard of Cincinnati, already deprived of one championship; Jack Medica of the Washington A. C. of Seattle, seek-ing his third crown of the meet; Mrs. Eleanor Holm Jarrett of New York, incomparable in the women's back stroke to date, and stately Claudia Eckert of Chicago—will make defenses. The Lake Shore A. C.'s men's medley relay trio will do

Mrs. Wingard swam a carefully paced race this afternoon to win her heat and qualify handily for the finals of the 500-yard free style

Shunted back to third in the final of the 220-yard free style last night, Mrs. Wingard, swimming unat-tached from Cincinnati, who wor fame before her marriage as a member of the Carnegie Library Club of Homestead, Pa., stroked in about five yards ahead of June Burr of the Greater Miami (Fla.) A. C. in the opening heat. Her time was ½ minutes 34.4 seconds, far off her own world and meet Medica had to turn on all his power in the last 25 yards last night to hang on to his 220-yard free style title, but managed to get up in time to conquer a rangy Ohio State University freshman, Ralph Gilman, in 2:11.6. John Higgins whittled his own American record minutes 43.4 seconds. 2:39.3, in taking over the 220-yard breast stroke title left vacant by Leonard Spence of the New York ILLINOIS WESLEYAN A. C. By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW ORLEANS, April 4.- The Cardinals may not know it but since they broke camp and started their northward exhibition-game tour against minor league clubs they have looked anything but the pennant contenders they are supposed to be in the coming National League championship race. Three games have been played against bush league clubs and two of these games have been won, but that is nothing to write home about.

Who Will Run Last?

Baseball writers, in their annual ballot on the probable order of finish in the National League pennant race, followed form rather closely in their first division predictions, but it is dif-ficult to understand how a maers to finish ahead of the Reds, Phillies and Bees.

Perhaps the Dodgers aren't the worst club in the league, but they didn't impress this observer as team likely to lead the second division. Of course the Reds are the best club rated below the Dodgers by the experts. There is no telling how first base will be covered, but Kampouris, Myers and Riggs should be better in fielders after their season together and the outfield should be an improved one. If Charley Dressen could be fortunate with his new pitching talent, the Reds easily could climb to the first di-

Brooklyn officials are optimistic over the team's prospects, but the probable starting lineup, on paper, does not sound like fifth place. The best outfield, according to observers in the South, who followed the Dodgers, is likely to be Eckhardt in right, Cooney in center and Lindstrom in left. That's nothing to excite enthusiasm. A discard in one field, and two oldish recent minor leaguers in the others. In the infield Hassett will be at first, Sherlock at second, Geraghty at short and Jimmy Bucher at third. There's too many "ifs" and not enough big bination to make the club stand up as a fifth place probability.

The Experts' Friend.

CELECTION of the probable first division clubs was more logical. Despite the Cubs' 1935 pennant victory, the experts leaned toward the Cardinals—the experts' best friend-and picked the Cubs for second honors, the Giants to run third and the Pirates to trail the first division.

According to observers with the Cubs, who gave their opinions after the league champions' game with the Cardinals last Monday, no important players have been added to the Chicago lineup. There was much talk during the early days of spring training about Recruits Lillard and Gill, and a pitcher or two, but the Chicago experts were not so hot about the new men as March waned.

Of course it is possible that. Chuck Klein will regain some-

CUNNINGHAM. NORDELL AND GLEN DAWSON IN MILE RACE

By Damon Kerby.

Glenn Cunningham, world record holder in the indoor and outdoor mile: Ralph Metcalfe, co-holder of the world record in the 100 and 220 yard dashes, and Ray Sears, American indoor two-mile record holder, will head a bright but select field in the St. Louis Relay Association's invitation indoor meet tonight on the board track at the Nordell in Top Form.

Nordell's recent victory over Cun-ningham was one of the high spots of the Eastern indoor season. Tall, slender, the blond-haired New York unner in most of his races is usually off the mark fast, and sets the early pace, only to fall back in the later stages. Over at Newark, however, he had enough left to stay in front of Cunningham and Joe Mangan until he broke the tape Incidentally, it was Nordell and his fast early pace who crowded Cun-ningham into his world indoor record in 1934 at Madison Square Gar-

While Cunningham is conceded the favorite in any race in which he competes, he will have to step out and fight for a victory tonight, what with Nordell seeking further to establish himself as a runner at Cunningham's expense, and Dawson, too, having the same specific idea. Dawson, who finished second to the great Kansan here last summer, has been saving himself dur-ing the closing indoor season, in order to be in top shape for the Olympic tryouts.

The 50-yard dash, which will be second in interest only to the mile race, also will bring together a field of only three men. Besides Julia the Negro flash, Metcalfe, the dash A. C. event has drawn Bob Grieve of the University of Illinois and Whitley Cox of the Tulsa Athletic Associamark, however, will not be recog-nized as the race was run over a dirt track. Cox ran the 50-yard event at the St. Louis Intercollegiate meet here a month ago in 5.3 seconds, just a tenth of a second short of the world record. Track followers expect that Metcalfe will followers expect that Metcalfe will have to tie the record to win tonight. The race should be a priliant spectacle for spectators who liant spectacle, for spectators who don't blink their eyes when the gun barks. Those who do, will have to read about it in the papers. Lightweights in Long Race. Two of the fastest two-mile men in the United States—Ray Sears of Butler College and Harold Manning of Wichita, Kan., will hook up in the two-mile race, and an odd quirk about these distance men is that neither tips the scales at more than 130 pounds. Sears has the better record of the two. Holder of the American indoor two-mile record of 9:74, he also has several other outstanding performances to his credit. Last summer he beat a bright international field in the Princeton Relays. His work in that race was called the best individual performance of the meet. Manning is the National A. A. U steeplechase champion at 3000 meters, and he is considered almost certainty for the U. S. Olympic team in this event. If he can stay close to Sears tonight in the longer two-mile, he may give form a beating and defeat Sears, for he has a strong "kick" at the finish of his Sears, Frank Crowley and Manning finished in that order at the St. Louis Relay Association's keeps going, nearly always? Nothing could stop Joar of Arc, Dr. Mary Walker, or Nelly Bly on her trip around the world. Now Amy Johnson, married name Mollinson sets out alone in a streamlined round-trip flight to Capetown and

All alone, down to the other side of the world and back again, over ocean, forests, wild beasts, and wilder men. And fools used to say women lacked courage.

Winthrop W. Aldrich, head of the Chase National Bank, biggest in America, knows about money, as did his father before him, the late Senator from Rhode Island. Mr. Aldrich thinks it would not be a good idea to turn money loose, and encourage a speculative, stock-gambling boom. He remembers

"the prospect of inflation is very grave, indeed," says Mr. Aldrich, and warns against "the erection of a top-heavy structure of credit again," and thinks the Federal Reserve Board should raise the legal reserve requirements of member banks. Reckless lending may come, for inflation already exists, hidden away in the banks.

Yesterday Italian troops reached Lake Tana, high in the Ethiopian mountains, whence the Blue Nile sends its waters down to the great river necessary to England's cotton raising plans in the Sudan, and the life of old Egypt. Lake Tana ac-counts for England's deep interest in the rights and wrongs of little will "systematize" that region, but respect England's rights. England suspects that Mussolini might divert Lake Tana water from the blue Nile

Mussolini's newspaper says h

ried about something when you the League establish an oil embar-go against Italy. A little late, but it is explained that England is outraged by Italy's use of poison gas against the Ethiopians.

Mussolini used something worse than poison gas against England, when he occupied Lake Tana re Troubles come together. Hitler tells England and the rest of Europe, "No, I will NOT promise not to fortify the Rhine district," and so England will help France if troucomes. Eden tells the House of Commons that Belgium will be included in the arrangement. It may be the same old play, with Austria missing from the cast.

Moscow has begun raising babies in the scientific Western way, nurses at the Moscow University Hospital Hospital wearing gauze over mouths and noses to protect new-born Muscovites from germs. Those little Muscovites, in the photograph, seem too strong for any germ to hurt them. Russia proudly claims the highest birth rate in Europe, so let war come; she will be ready.

At New York's Museum of Sci-At New York's Museum of Science and Industry, in Rockefelier Center, Dr. Stephen Zand, formerly a flyer in the Polish and French armies, told of airplane progress in Europe that should interest Washington, D. C. A tiny plane, for which the parts can be bought cheaply, is built by Frenchmen in their backyards, as Americans built radio sets. The French call this plane the "Sky Louse." England has something like it, called more politely "The Flying Flea."

Most important, Dr. Zand went to Europe, employed by the French Government, to make its airplanes sound proof. Some foreign country will build a bullet plane to fly the Atlantic Ocean in six hours, the Pacific between sunrise and sunset. Then it may be too late for us to become interested.

Some suggest gambling lotteries legalized in the United States to legalized in the United States to keep American money at home. That is like suggesting that a father arrange to have his son get drunk at home that he may not get drunk at the corner saloon. Expert accountants show that buyers of tickets in one "patriotic home lottery" have about one chance in 150,000 to win. If you like those edds, invest. Millions' worth of lottery tickets are sold with odds of a thousand billion to one against the buyer; the tickets are fraudu—Continued on Page 2. Columnia.

count out, the hand of a poor player from his bidding alone. Not so with experts. Except for those casions where they have risked fooling their partner in their more pressing desire to fool the adversaries, after a 'ew bids, and when a few cards have been played, their hands become open books.

In today's hand East and West made only one bid each, other than the final penalty double. Yet, at a comparatively early stage in the mine, within a reasonable doubt, the exact distribution of the remaining cards.

North-South vulnerable.

North East West 1 spade 2 clubs Pass 3 clubs 3 spades Double (final bid)

West's double was a trifle too close despite his honor strength and his partner's raise. He was, no doubt, influenced by the fact that he knew South to be a liberal hidder and the hope that this was one of the times when he had his "neck" stretched.

The club king was the opening lead, followed by the ace. South ruffed and led three top trumps, West winning the third round and shifting to the heart king. next play was a low heart. East's ace winning, and a third round was South ruffed and now did his "counting."

West was marked with five clubs, both from his overcall and from East's raise, that in the absence of the ace, king, and jack must have been based on four cards.

West had shown three spades, East monds. East certainly would have chosen to bid two hearts rather than three clubs if he had held five or six to the ace. Therefore, he could hold only four, since West also would have bid hearts with five or more. Thus West was placed with a singleton diamond.

Confidently, South led a small diamond to the king and finessed for the tack on the return. In this way his doubled contract was ful-

TOMORROW'S HOROSCOPE * by WYNN *

For Sunday, April 5. THERE are times when it is wise to test out values in your thinking, planning and deciding; and there are times when results would not be good because the answers would be vague. Today is the latter. Take it easy.

Reincarnation.

Each and every one of us is the total of all we have been. We couldn't be what we are today without having gone through the steps and stages to become our present selves. And what we shall do will be registered and recorded in our development all the way did not agree wit through the future years of this any point. For Monday, April 6. First of three days for taking time and energy needed for look- shadows and ing into and improving conditions of others. Today: caution is ad- spaces should be. vised with superiors and inferiors: take nothing for granted. Also, be kind to the opposing sex.

Many Lives. Reincarnation, the belief that man lives many times in various phases of his present state, is philosophically sound and is everlastingly linked with the science complicated, and it may be that of Astrology. This may seem like quite a stretch at first, but familiar ity with both will bring them closer together the further you proceed. No one lifetime can explain all that Issue Will Commemorate Settlement of Old Oregon Territory.

POSTMASTER - GENERAL JAMES A. FARLEY has announced authorization of the issue of a special postage stamp to commemorate the 100th annive sary of the settling of the old Oregon Territory, which included the states of Washington, Oregon, Idaho and parts of Montana and Wyoming. The commemorative stamp being issued is for the State of Oregon.

The design will probably be a map of Oregon Territory showing the location of the Whitman and Spalding Mission and such trading posts as existed in 1836. The Whitman and Spalding Mission was established by Dr. Marcus Whitman and his wife, and the Rev. Henry Harmon Spalding and his wife. These four left their homes in New York State to make the 3000-mile journey across the continent to establish homes in the wilderness, They spent five months on the journey and brought with them the first covered wagons to cross the Rocky Another announcement made by the Postmaster-General is that he has authorized the issuance of a special sheet of postage stamps in connection with the International Philatelic Congress in New York, May 9 to 17.

The sheet will consist of four of these stamps. The Rhode Island Commemorative placed on sale to the public in single copies during the first week in May and the place of the first day sale will be Providence, R. I.

With the addition of the Oregon stamp to the schedule of stamps to be issued this year, it brings the total number of commemoratives to 14 and one special sheet. These consist of the Oregon stamp, the Rhode Island stamp, the Arkansas stamp, the Texas stamp and the 10 stamps to be issued jointly for the Army and Navy. IF YOU ASK MY OPINION

By Martha Carr

My dear Mrs. Carr:

My dear Mrs. Carr:

AM a girl nearly 17 years old. I have a friend who is well off, a school teacher, who takes an interest in me and who has asked me to go with her to her summer home.

We are not very well off since the depression, but I am going to try to make the trip any way, and it means clothes. I thought perhaps you might be able to suggest some inexpensive clothes which would not look too cheap. I want to start buying my things right

The summer program will be swimming, tennis horseback riding, golf. And this teacher is going to teach me ballet and tap dancing. And I do not know what sort of beach things to get.

We will tour and, as I am going as her guest, I do not know what part of the expenses I should pay on the way and when I am there. Inother teacher and a friend will also tour with us. Can you suggest any book on the good form of traveling that I might read? I think I have good manners, yet I wouldn't like to do anything wrong. I would like to know about table manners in a restaurant. You see, I've never traveled in this way before and I want to be the right kind of guest. I guess it will not be so hard as I think, but I want to be prepared.

I hope I haven't asked for too much, but it looks like an awfully lot to me.

I think you need not be apprehensive. Your friend probably is a woman of experience and has had much general contact; and, for this reason, she would be more nient and considerate in her judgment of you because she knows a girl your age is, necessarily, inexperienced.

If I knew exactly which place you were going, I should have more idea about the needs in the way of wardrobe. But few of the Northern resorts are very formal; they are much less so than those in the East or the Far West. However, you have planned a rather varied ogram, which will entail rather a arriety in your outfit. There are, though, many inexpensive and pret-ty bathing suits, sports clothes and even riding clothes.

The wise first move to make is to talk with your friend and ask her, as any older friend would do, her, as any older friend would do, just where the resort is and if she will give you some idea what equipment, in the way of wardrobe, you will need. She will not be surprised a bit and, I've no doubt, may even take enough interest to help you select colors and fabrics, and to guide you in making these proper, but not elaborate purchases. Naturally, being well-bred, you want to be courteous and not expect too much. On your way, should you stop at any hotels, offer to pay for your room and your meals; but outside of this, I doubt you will have any expenses. Next, go to the library and borrow Emily Post's book, "Etiquette." You will

Post's book, "Etiquette." You will find in that a chapter on each of the subjects you have touched upon, very clear and very certain to be right. In fact, you would save yourself a good deal of speculation and anxiety in the future if you will buy the book and keep it by you

MILICENT BATES is engaged to JOHN MURDOCK. It is a case of love at first sight. John is fun loving, a delightful companion and he dances beautifully. Milicent, who as a dress designer is the sole support of her widowed mother, is in love for the first time. She had been willing to wait for John when they became engaged but now their marriage is to be at once because John has received a $5000 legacy. They are to be married and take their vacations for a honeymoon. John is employed by his brother-in-law but hates business. By ALBERT EDWARD WIGGAM, D. Sc.

See Whether His Opinions Agree With Your Own

AUTHOR'S NOTE: These an swers are given from the scientific point of view. Science puts the rights of organized society above the rights of individuals.

-Ross Stagner of Minnesota University, divided a group of college students into five sub-groups owing to their economic level, all the way from "poverty" to com-parative affluence. He then gave them tests of traits of personality-such as ntroversion, self-esteem, emotional sta-ulity, social exclusiveness, feelings of inferiority, depression, nervous moods, etc., and found those from the poorer homes averaged decidedly worse on all these unfavorable traits of personality than those from the more privileged homes. As Abe Martin said: "Poverty is no disgrace, but it might as well be.

2. sociologist, had 150 unemployed men and women map out precisely what they expected to do the next day, such as sleeping, eating, reading, writing, radio, walking, etc., and tabulate just how long they expected each activity to take. They tried to each activity to take. They tried to carry out their planned activities the next day and found it took an average of five hours longer to carry out their plans than they had planned. Probably most people would find this even more than true of their plans for

The Dog's Plate
One dog owner uses the pan in which the dog's water is kept for his eating pan also. The water is poured out, the dog fed, tile dish washed and filled with fresh water. It eliminates two and the good germs in their battle against the bad ones. If they win out, we get well; if not we have a bad time. But too often we forget all about the good germs. ter.
